The Proposed Menument to the Prince Imperial.

Surprise is expressed, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Times, by several French Republican newspapers at the revival of the scheme of a monument to the Prince Imperial in Westminster Abbey. They acquit the English government and nation of any share in the matter, but they urge that, whatever pity the Prince's fate originally produced, the disclosures of his own partisans as to his fixed purpose of a hostile landing in France should have dictated the abandonment of so ostentatious a memorial to an enemy of a friendly government.

The Quinine Question WASHINGTON, March 3 - The House committee on Ways and Means gave a hearing to-day to a number of manufacturers of quinine, who desire that the duty on the imported article technically known as "sulphate of quinine" which was removed by an act of Congress, passed during the extra session last year, shall be restored. The manufacturers urge that while the duty on quinine has been removed, articles from which it is manufactured are still taxed. To offset these taxes on raw materials from which quinine is made and give them a fair chance with foreign manufacturers, they urge an imposition of duty of at least ten per cent, on imported quinine. They also presented a memorial signed by the druggists of forty-eight cities in various parts of the country favoring a duty of ten per cent. advalorem on foreign quinine, for the better quality than foreign and should

A Big Explosion and a Large Fire. NEW YORK, March 3 -A Rochester special dispatch states that about half half-past two o'clock yesterday morning a loud explosion awoke the inhabitants of Bergen, in Genesee county, and a barn near King's warehouse, in the business part of the village, was discovered to be on fire. Another exosion occurred and the roof of Tulley's hardware store was hurled to the ground in fragments; and almost immediately a third explosion occurred in an adjoining building, and in a few minutes the flames spread along the whole street. The fire apparatus was in one of the first, which was on fire, and there was nothing with which to fight the tire. And was telegraphed for from Rochester, but before a response could be made to the call the entire business portion of Bergen was in ru-ins. Twenty-eight business places, and nine dwellings were destroyed. The fire was plainly the work of an incendiary, as evidences of a train of powder from the barn to the buildings where the second and third explosions occurred, could be easily traced while the fire was raging. The loss is estimated at $140,000.

Parisian Newspapers.

The saying that "they manage these things better in France" does not seem to apply to the conduct of adaily newspaper. Le Globe, the Parisian journal which was recently enlarged to an eight page sheet, with special dispatches, has been compelled to return to its original size of four pages, and fill its colums with anecdote and gos sip, instead of with news from the outside world. Parisian shopkeepers seem to have no idea of the value of newspaper advertising, and confine them-selves to letting their business be known through the medium of posters on dead walls, and bills and circulars, so that the best Paris daily has seldom more than half a page of advertising. Business men in this country, however, know the value of newspaper advertising, and are successful in proper branches just in proportion to their use of

The presence in this city yesterday of a number of the "statesmen" from Albany caused these rumors to assume something like definate shape. The plan proposed is said to be the getting together of the Democratic members of the Legislature, the appointment of a committee and the sending out of an invitation to the recognized leaders and wise men of the party meet in Albany at an early day for consultation. It is stated that the plan would have been developed in detail before now but for the fact that the Kings county delegathe fact that the kings county delega-tion, which is recognized now as one of the most important factors in State politics, have been backward in defin-ing their opinions or position. Respectable Farmer Cuts His Brother's, His Brother's Wife's and His Own Throat.

By Telegraph to the News COLUMBIA, S. C., March 3 .- Yesterday afternoon at Silver street, New Bury county, W. Speerman, a respectable and successful farmer entered his house and accosted his younger brother, who was just rising from the table, saying,"I want to speak to you brother," and simultaneously drew a large knife and made a slash at his brother's throat, cutting a terrible gash, severing the jugular vein and causing his death in a few moments. The slaver then rushed into the adjoining room and cut his wife's throat from ear to ear. He then lifted the bloody knife and deliberately cut his own throat, It is supposed he was laboring under temporary mental aberration as he was a sober, kind hearted man, and on most affectionate terms with his wife and brother.

FASHIONABLE: FANCIES. Rich imported toilets abound in lace

Indestructible French flowers are the best kind for art decorative purposes indoors, as well as outdoors, as neither heat nor cold, storm, rain or snow can harm them. Parisian corsages are cut more decollette than was the fashion earlier in the season. There is, however, comparatively little acceptance of this feature by American women.

Skirts are decidedly shorter this season, whether for the matron who wears striped velvet, brocade and satin, or for youthful dancers in gauze, silk muslin and India muslin. One of the prettiest of the new spring fabrics bears the name of Fleur de The. It is as thin as cambric and elastic like crape, and returns to its crinkled form after being laundried. Fashionable false fronts of waved or curled hair cover the whole crown of the head, coming low on the forehead small shell comb on each side. Full fraises of lace are worn high and close around the throat. The lace is put in treble box pleats, and there is a long pointed bow of muslin and lace added to this to fall low on the corsage. Dresses are still made with scant skirts, bridled across the front and draped up behind. In the make of bodices there is more variety, but the basque waist prevails in the new spring The latest novelty in the way of ma-king up velvet is to have the dress composed of a perfectly plain corsage, plain coat sleeves and a plain demirained skirt without flounces, tablier or overskirt. Odds and ends of good old lace can be used up and shown off by putting them on to small pieces of muslin and allowing them to peep out of the fronts of dresses or the side-pocket of a casaquin or bodice, simulating a pocket handkerchief.

Artificial bouquets for the corsage are worn both in the house and street, and are seen on the dresses imported from the best Parisian houses. Natural flowers are, however, greatly prefer-red, and ladies who can obtain them use fresh natural flowers all winter.

in our report of the S. S. Convention. A Word for "Tom Holt-"

Correspondenence Raleigh State Journal. My business requires me to travel extensively over the State, and I find there is an increasing wish expressed to place Col. Thos. M. Holt in the Governor s chair wherever I go; and to m this is one of the most encouraging indications of a brighter and more pros perous future; and it inspires the thinking part of the community, and more especially the old people, like your correspondent—who has long liv-ed in Raleigh and been accustomed to peep behind the curtain of demagogues and political intriguers, and has often seen the wret hedness produced by them for the sake of personal interests or the advancement of party favorites - to hail with joy and thanksgiving the disposition, which is evidently deepening, to select men to fill places of distinction with reference to their intrinsic fitness

While I have no unkind feelings for any whose names have been mention ed in connection with the office of Governor, but on the contrary have a high esteem for them personally, and am proud of them as fellow citizens, nevertheless we live at perhaps the most critical period in the history of our State; and the time has come when we must rather suspect aspirants, and draw from the ordinary walks of life those who are diligent in business, fervent in spirit and serving the Lord—who, by executive qualifications, sound judgment and persistent industry, have been prosperous in their private enterprises and faithful and efficient in the discharge of public duties assigned them, and with a heart, soul and means adequate to fill the office of Governor as did our fathers, who accepted the office not for its emcluments, but from patriotic impulses only; and in the es-timation of a vast number of the yeo-manry of North Carolina, comprising farmers, mechanics, laborers, and many of the professional men of the old school, no man in the State is better suited to meet the expectations of every class than Col. Thos. M. Holt.

His wonderful management and consequent prosperity as farmer, manu-facturer of cotton fabrics, or as presi-ding officer of the North Carolina State Agricultural Society, and as president of the North Carolina Railroad—his enlarged liberality, his practical sympathy for those struggling to provide the necessaries of life—his catholic spirit and munificent contributions to religious and other benevolent objects, long before his name was thought of in connection with office-speak in thun-der tones in his favor; and all classes, women and children not excepted, would rejoice to see him elected to occupy the chair of State.

If this should happen, we would once more witness a renewal of those joyous occasions when fathers and mothers, their sons and their daughters, th high and the low, the rich and the poor would be seen arm in arm or hand in hand on their way to Governor Holt's monthly sofrees to wish him and his accomplished family peace and prosperity, as was the custom in days of old. Then echo and re-echo the cry for Colonel Thomas M. Holt, of Haw River for Covernor if you would cleat er, for Governor, if you would gladden hehearts of the people.

THE TILDEN SYNDICATE.

RANDALLAND OTHERS ON A MYS.

TERIOUS MISSION.

Some Plain Talk from Western and Southern Members about the Duty of the Cincinnati Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.-Speaker Randall left this city yesterday for New York to attend a meeting of Mr. Tilden's syndicate, called for Sunday noon. The Speaker and Mr. Scott will represent Pennsylvania at that meeting. Mr. Randall has doubts, which increase day by day, whether, notwithstanding all that has happened and all the loya service he has rendered Mr. Tilden and Mr. Pelton, the mantle of Mr. Tilden will fall upon him at Cincinnati. Of the National Committee of thirty-eight, which met here on Monday last and which was appointed at St. Louis in which was appointed at St. Louis in 1876 as a committee of Mr. Tilden's friends, only ten could be found to go with Mr. Scottin advocacy of Mr. Tilden for the coming campagn. This unexpected defection from Gramercy Park has led to the formation of the new "syndicate" which is to hold its first meeting in New York to-day.

The prevailing opinion in Washington among western Democrats as that

The prevailing opinion in Washington among western Democrats is that Mr. Tilden will use the machinery which he organized before the St. Louis Convention in 1876, and during the canvass of that year in order to bring about a complimentary nomination of himselt at Cincinnati. In the Southern States the Democratic delegates to the St. Louis Convention are likely to be rechosen if they are alive and desire it, and therefore it is held to be certain that the influences employed by Mr. Tilden four years ago this month will continue in operation in June, 1880. Mr. Tilden appeals with considerable force to the sympathies of the older members of his party, but with the younger men in the South and West there is, it is said, visible impatience with his methods and his political self-ishness. That he will actually be the Democratic candidate this year no one expects. The earnest and fighting men among the Democrats are said to be everywhere in the West outspoken expects. The earnest and against men among the Democrats are said to be everywhere in the West outspoken in opposition to any scheme which im-plies that the Democratic delegates are o go to Cincinnati handicapped with any other purpose than that of picking out the fittest Democrat in the country to be the President of the United States. To a complimentary resolution respecting Mr. Tilden, if he asks it as an "indorsement," they do not object. But they say it would be childish to But they say it would be childish to offer a nonination to Mr. Tilden on an understanding with the syndicate that some member of the syndicate will have a letter in his pocket from Mr. Tilden declining "the unsolicited honor." Such proceedings would bring contempt on the ticket from the start, and enable the opposition to say that the Democratic Convention represented only "a pocket borough" in New York. As a Western Senator remarked yesterday. "the Cincinnati marked yesterday, "the Cincinnati Convention must make a vigorous platform and put on it vigorous candi-dates, in order that the country may feel that the Democracy mean business and has something higher in view than conducting the affairs of a mutual admiration society."

The opinions of the World respecting the issues of 1861 and 1880 are commended on every side. Democrats say that the World is right when it says that the Democracy if it is to win in 1880. Democracy, if it is to win in 1880, must cease to act any longer on the defen-sive and abandon the "still hunt." One consequence of the Democratic refusal to give battle to the stalwarts have grown more aggressive, while the Democratic spirit has become more and more timid. The incessant talk of late about conducting the canvass of 1880 on the returning-board doings of 1876-7 only brings Pelton more and more to the front, and tends to make the canvass a strife between the partisans of Petton on one side and of Babcock on the other. The conviction is increasing in Washington that Mr. Tilden's effort to kill off Mr. Bayard as a rival by bringing the events of 1861 to the front has put a weapon into the hands of the stalwarts which will be fatal to the Democracy in 1880 unless the Democracy frankly and courageously go into battle under their own colors. It is idle for the Democracy to deny that the party was for conciliation and peace and opposed to civil war in 1861. It is also idle for the Democracy to deny that it condemned the arbitrary arrests and violations of the Constitution with the constitution violations of the Constitution which Stauton and Seward inspired and up-heid from 1861 to 1865. The Democratic platform of 1854 cannot be suppressed or explained away. If the Democracy are to pretend in 1880 that they repudiate the Democratic conventions of 1854, 1858 and 1872, then great numbers of Democrats will be unable to see any reason for Democratic denunciation of staiwerts. Western Democrats say that they no more mean now than they meant in 1864 to canonize Mr. Stanton as a Democratic saint and an apostle of constitutional righteousn Doctors Will Differ. The following characteristic letter speaks for itself; is plain English; needs no interpreter. Read it:

A FULL report of the meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of this District, held in this city yesterday, will be found on the local page. The District Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress will meet in this city on July 16th, next.

OUR telegrams announce that the Chicago paper-makers are bitterly opposed to Congress reducing or abolishing the duty on imported paper, or chemicals used in its manufacture, and that they will perform some wonderful athletic performances in the line of "kicking" against any legislation by that body touching the matter. It's no use. The press and the people want the dutys removed and it will be done Congress cannot and will not turn a deaf ear to these appeals.

THE Florida State Fair, which came off at Jacksonville last week, was in all respects a success, the exhibition being a decided improvement over its predecessors in all departments, whilst the attendance was large, many being present from far distant States. The sports included running and trotting races, rifle-shooting, etc., whilst the appetite was satisfied with green peas, strawberries, etc., the product of that tropical region. The Jacksonville press is enthusiastic over the future of that city, and sees no reason why it should not have 40,000 population in a few years.

THE CZAR'S ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of Alexander II. to the throne of all the Russias, was celebrated yesterday with fear and trembling. The apprehensions caused by the plots and threats of the Nihilists cannot be disof loyalty. The ghoul at the Imperial banquet in the Winter Palace will not be exorcised by flourish of trumpets within or by drum-beat and flreworks without. The government having once given way to its panic terror, finds it imposible to regain its self-posses* sion. The army is untainted with treason and the peasantry is too inert to be influenced by revolutionary ideas, but the disaffection of the townspeople and the educated class is steadily increasing. Authority is now grounded on intimidation rather than the traditional devotion of the masses for the sovereign, and after two-years of reactionary zeal and military compression the Government finds itself too limp to stamp out disloyalty. After reigning for a quarter of a century, the Czar virtually confesses his inability to govern his subjects any longer, and, casting about for a suitable proxy, invests the son of an Armenion merchant with the absolute power of a military with the absolute power of a military dictator. Himself the victim of a melancholy which has darkened the lives of so many of his ancestors, he shrinks back from the windows of specific Clothing Clothing Clothing Department of the state of the celebrated Pearl Shirts, from $1.00 to $1.25 and $1.35. My uphe shrinks back from the windows of his palace, and orders his excelled. soldiers to ransack his cellars for dynamite. It is a sorry anniversary for Alexander the Liberato.

For on this day it must not be forgotten that no Sovereign of modern times has undertaken so many and such radical reforms as this same Alexander the Liberator. He not only set free twenty millions of serfs and endowed them with the rights of citizenship in the communes, but enabled them to be come landed proprietors. In no other reign and in no other country has an experiment of equal magnitude in political and social science been made. In the United States the freedmen were given the right of suffrage, but in Russia emancipation was accompanied by a radical change in the conditions of land tenure. At the same time trial by jury was established, the judicial tribunals were lifted above the level of the secret police was reformed from the bottom; and while parliamentiary institutions were withheld, the peasantry, which formed nine-tenths of the population of the Empire, were allowed to exercise all the functions of local selfrule. The Czar was a practical reformer at a time when reforming zeal was running riot, and in the early years of his reign an era of national regeneration seemed to be opening. Twenty-five years have gone by, and the monarch who was once a Liberal of the Liberals heading the movement for free labor, local independence and administrative reform, is now a prisoner in his own palace, with a military dictator outside. It may be that the Czar will recall today what his father, the iron-handed Nicholas, is reported to have said almost with his last breath: "My successor may do as he pleases, "but I cannot change." The humiliations of the Crimea did not modify the theory of absolute monarchy and military compression to which he had adhered for thirty years. He died as he had lived, with his faith in the efficacy of military despotism unshaken. His successor did as he pleased and left nothing unchanged; but it has come to pass that he has abandoned Liberalism and reverted to his father's methods of intolerant administration. The illusions of reform have been dispelled. The serfs whom he enfranchised have not been transformed into sober and thrifty farmers. The people whom he sought to serve and bless with remedial measures are disappointed and ungrateful. If the father placed too implicit reliance upon absolutism, the son's expectations of the immediate results of a reform policy were overwrought and illusive. Yet were those reforms beneficent and enlightened? If Russian regeneration has not been accomplished in a quarter of a century, it is because nations are doomed to work out their salvation with fear and trembling-not with the panic terror and vacillation manifested in the Emperor's councilchamber, but with a wholesome dread of economic conditions and race impulses, and with a resolute, determined effort-sometimes an agonizing struggle-to promote the progress of civil-

Undenbtedly Conscientions. New York Truth, (Ind)

When Mr. Bayard spoke as he did in 1861 he was undoubtedly conscientious in all he said. He thought the war a mistake, and endeavored to avoid it by all the means in his power. There were hundreds of thousands of loyal men in the North who thought at that time ex-actly as he did, and who lamented that blood was to be shed by citizens of a common country. But when once the war became a necessity, and secession was rampant, there was no more loyal and earnest statesman in the councils of the North than Senator Bayard.

How He Took the Oysters Home. Detroit Free Press.

A First ward man was told by his wife to bring home a quart of cysters to fry for supper. He drask a few pre-scriptions of egg-nogg, and then took a paper bag full of selects and started for home. He stopped at two or three saloons and the bag began to melt, and when he left the last saloon the bottom fell out of the bag and the oysters were on the sidewalk. We will leave the man there, gazing upon the wreck, and take the reader to the residence where he is expected. A red faced woman is putting the finishing touches to the supper table and wondering why her husband does not come with the oysters. Presently a noise as of a lead pencil in the keyhole salutes her ear, and she goes to the door and opens it and finds him taking the pencil out of the keyhole. Not seeing any oysters she asks him if he has forgotten the oysters. "Forgotten noth—(hic)—ing," says he. He walks up to the table and asks for a plate, which is given by the unsuspicious wife. "Damsaccident you ever (hic) see," said the truly old man, as he brought his hand out of his overcoat pocket with four oysters, a little smoking tobacco and a piece of cigar stub. "Slipprysoystersey hic)er was," said he, as he run his hands pelled by glitter of pomp or affectation down in the other pocket, bringing up five oysters, a piece of envelope and wire that was used as a bail to the pail. "Got all mp p(hic)ockets full," said he, as he took alarge oyster out of his vest pocket. Then he began to go down in nisp ants pocket, and finding a hole in the said; "Six big (hic)sters gone it he said: down my trousers leg. Sposi'll find them in my boot," and he sat down to pull off his boot, when the lady took the plate of oysters and other stuff into the kitchen and threw them in the swill anethen she put him to bed, and all the time he was trying to tell her how thebag busted just as he was in front of Al Saints Ca hic thedral.'

Wheat Mills and one Corn Mill, new and
